THE CHRONICLES AND MEMORIALS

GREAT BRITAIN AND IRELAND

DURING THE MIDDLE AGES.

PUBLISHED BY THE AUTHORITY OF HER MAJESTY'S TREASURY, UNDER THE DIRECTION OF THE MASTER OF THE ROLLS.

On the 26th of January 1857, the Master of the Rolls submitted to the Treasury a proposal for the publication of materials for the History of this Country from the Invasion of the Romans to the Reign of Henry VIII.

The Master of the Rolls suggested that these materials should be selected for publication under competent editors without reference to periodical or chronological arrangement, without mutilation or abridgment, preference being given, in the first instance, to such materials as were most scarce and valuable.

He proposed that each chronicle or historical document to be edited should be treated in the same way as if the editor were engaged on an Editio Princeps; and for this purpose the most correct text should be formed from an accurate collation of the best MSS.

To render the work more generally useful, the Master of the Rolls suggested that the editor should give an account of the MSS. employed by him, of their age and their peculiarities; that he should add to the work a brief account of the life and times of the author, and any remarks necessary to explain the chronology; but no other note or comment was to be allowed, except what might be necessary to establish the correctness of the text.

The works to be published in octavo, separately, as they were finished; the whole responsibility of the task resting upon the editors, who were to be chosen by the Master of the Rolls with the sanction of the Treasury.

The Lords of Her Majesty's Treasury, after a careful consideration of the subject, expressed their opinion in a Treasury Minute, dated February 9, 1857, that the plan recommended by the Master of the Rolls "was well calculated for the accomplishment of this important national object, in an effectual and satisfactory manner, within a reasonable time, and provided proper attention be paid to economy, in making the detailed arrangements, without unnecessary expense."

They expressed their approbation of the proposal that each chronicle and historical document should be edited in such a manner as to represent with all possible correctness the text of each writer, derived from a collation of the best MSS., and that no notes should be added, except such as were illustrative of the various readings. They suggested, however, that the preface to each work should contain, in addition to the particulars proposed by the Master of the Rolls, a biographical account of the author, so far as authentic materials existed for that purpose, and an estimate of his historical credibility and value.

PREFACE.

PREFACE

It is deeply to be regretted that an historic monument so important, and of such great interest to all students of our early times, not only in Britain, but throughout all Germanic lands, as the Anglo-Saxon Chronicle, should afford us no information with regard to its several writers,[1] or to the mode in which it gradually grew into the form in which we now possess it. Equally devoid are we of all indirect or collateral evidence, tending to cast a glimmering of light on these points. Conjecture, therefore, and that founded only on probability, is all we can have recourse to, in an attempt to account for the phenomenon. One point, however, seems indisputable, viz., that the several manuscripts, whether West Saxon or Mercian, are derived from a common original; whence the question naturally arises, how and by whom was such original issued to the several monasteries, which, from their rank, or the reputation of one or other of their inmates, for learning or superior penmanship, were deemed qualified for the proposed object of multiplying copies; and where it received such additional matter as, on account of local interest or other circumstances, might seem desirable to those whose province it was to supervise the literary department of the brotherhood.

[1] Under the year 1087 (p. 354; Transl. p. 188), the writer of that part of the Laudian manuscript (E.) speaks in the first person, both singular and plural, and informs us that he was not only a contemporary of, and personally acquainted with, the Conqueror, but that he had lived in his court; in his own words: þonne wille we be him awritan swa swa we hine ageaton · þe him onlocodan · ⁊ oðre hwile on his hirede wunedon: then we will write concerning him as we understood him, who have looked on him and, at another time, sojourned in his court. From the above, however, we can only form the probable conjecture, that the writer, after his withdrawal from court, joined the brotherhood in the abbey of Peterborough.

As contributors to the composition of the Saxon Chronicle, the names of king Ælfred and of archbishops Plegemund and Dûnstân have been mentioned. This, too, is pure conjecture; though, with respect at least to Ælfred and Plegemund, a conjecture by no means void of probability; nor shall we perhaps greatly err in assigning to their influence and authority the earlier or original portion of the earliest manuscript,[1] ending with the year 891, and which, from a comparison of the form of its letters with those of other manuscripts of the same period, may be safely assigned to the end of the ninth century, and, with a semblance of probability, as the prototype of the other copies. In favour, too, of Ælfred's participation in the composition of the Chronicle, may be noticed the greater fullness of narrative that prevails, from the year 853, or soon after Ælfred's birth; also that (with the exception of MS. Cott. Domit. A. VIII.), the account of the acts of that prince, is, in all the manuscripts, so strikingly similar; while, in other

[1] The Corpus Christi manuscript. —It is the opinion of Dr. Lappenberg (England under the A.S. Kings, Introd. p. xxxix.), and, after him, of the author of the Preface to the 'Monumenta Historica Britannica' (p. 75), that this manuscript is in the dialect of Mercia; an opinion which, if well founded, would prove that the belief in Ælfred's participation in the work is wholly groundless. But the examples cited by the authority last mentioned, in support of the dialect being Mercian, seem to me more than questionable: as cuom for com, Walas for Wealas, slog for sloh, hiera for heora, Miercna for Mercna (or rather for hyra, Myrcna); since in Ælfred's Boethius we find hiera and hiere, with numerous other instances of ie for y, as ieldran for yldran, etc.; also ofslog for ofsloh, and genog for genoh; Wealas, too, occurs in this very Corpus manuscript. Cuom for com, may, with every probability, be regarded as an Anglian form; though even that may be only an archaism, Goth. cwam. The two dialects have, I believe, been never satisfactorily distinguished; at the same time, we may, I think, without risk of error, pronounce the Corpus manuscript of West Saxon origin.

The testimony also supplied us by the old French chronicle of Geffrei Gaimar, who lived in the middle of the twelfth century, is of some authority, as tending to corroborate the supposition, that to king Ælfred we are indebted for a Saxon Chronicle, and, down to his time, probably in its present form. According to the same chronicler, that prince had a copy of a chronicle at Winchester fastened by a chain, so that all who wished might read; but that it might not be taken from the spot[1]; a custom of which traces still exist in England, or at least have existed, within the memory of the present generation. A further corroboration of the existence of the Chronicle in its present form, in the days of king Ælfred, is the circumstance, that his friend, Asser, bishop of Sherborne, translates and incorporates much of its matter, in his Latin life of his royal patron, from the year 849 to 887.

The Saxon Chronicle comprises the period from the invasion of Britain by Julius Cæsar to the accession of Henry II. in A.D. 1154; and is, conjointly with the Ecclesiastical History of Beda, the principal source whence our early chroniclers have derived their matter.

What has just been stated, with reference to king Ælfred, may perhaps tend in some degree to account for the distribution of copies of the Chronicle among certain religious houses, during the reign of that prince: but how it was continued in after-times we are without any intimation whereupon to found more than a probable conjecture; although all the extant copies, not excepting that which least resembles the others (Domit. A. VIII.), bear proofs of a common prototype, as must be evident to every reader of the several texts displayed in the present edition. Of this subject, the passage from the Scotichronicon, quoted below, offers a curious and not improbable illustration;[1] though, perhaps, too vague and too recent to be considered as evidence.

While regarding Ælfred as the probable originator of the Saxon Chronicle, it must, at the same time, be evident that in England there already existed written memorials of our early times, whence he, or rather perhaps his coadjutors, derived materials; and to such Beda alludes,[2] in the words: "A principio voluminis "hujus usque ad tempus quo gens Anglorum fidem "Christi percepit, ex priorum maxime scriptis, hinc "inde collectis, ea quæ promeremus didicimus." He also speaks of "monimenta literarum;" also Malmesbury: "Sunt sane quædam vetustatis indicia, chronico more "et patrio sermone, per annos Domini ordinata."[1]

In thus assuming Ælfred and his coadjutors as the originators of the Saxon Chronicle, the question arises: Is the Chronicle, in succeeding ages, to be regarded as a contemporaneous narrative of events? Generally speaking, I am inclined to answer in the affirmative, although it certainly is not free from interpolations of later date. Such interpolations are, however, chiefly prevalent in manuscript Domitian A. VIII., and the Laudian manuscript. As an instance of such interpolation, may be noticed the entry A.D. 876, in the manuscript first mentioned, where it is said, that Rodla (Rolf, Rollo)[2] penetrated into Normandy, and reigned

[1] Prol. Gest. Reg.

[2] As a progenitor of our Norman and Angevin kings, and, through them, of the present reigning house, a few words (after the example afforded by the Chronicle itself, in the case of the Saxon and Anglian kings) concerning Rolf's lineage, may not be deemed irrelevant. According to the idle tale told of this chieftain by the Norman writers, Dudo of St. Quentin, William of Jumièges, Benedict of St. More, and Wace, Rolf was a Dane, whose power appearing too formidable in the land, the king led a force against him and his brother Garin, or Gurim (Gorm?); but, in an attempt to take his castle, was put to flight, though he afterwards worsted him through an ambuscade; from which, however, Rolf escaped, though his brother Garin was slain. He afterwards sailed to Scotland, and finally invaded and won the province thenceforward called Normandy. This story is probably the invention of a chronicler anxious to flatter the pride of his ducal patron. Far more probable is the account given by Snorri (Heimskringla, ch. 24), that Rolf was a son of Rögnvald, jarl of Mœri in Norway, and, as we are told, was of so gigantic a stature, that he was compelled to go on foot, whence his appellation of Hrôlfr gavngr, or Rolf the ganger or walker. For his plunderings (strandhug) on the coast of Norway, he was expelled from the country by king Harald Hârfagri. William of Malmesbury (and from him, Alberic) says of him: "De "nobili, sed per vetustatem obsoleta, "prosapia Noricorum editus." Dudo calls him the son of a truly free man, who, for no feudal obligation, would place his hands between those of another. And again: "Rollo "superbo regum ducumque san-"guine natus."

fifty years. The date (876) of Rolf's landing in France is correctly given, at least it accords both with Ordericus Vitalis and Florence of Worcester. The year of his death is variously given; for, according to another interpolated entry, in the same manuscript, the accession of his son, William I., took place in the year 928, and this date accords with that assigned by the Chron. Alberici for the death of Rolf. In fact, all the entries in this manuscript respecting Normandy, previous to the Conquest, as well as some others, may safely be placed to the account of the monastic scribe, and not belonging to the genuine Chronicle.

A remarkable case of what would be pronounced an interpolation, did it not appear in no less than five of the six manuscripts, occurs under the year 755, under which date, an event, the murder of Cynewulf, is recorded, which did not occur until 784, when it is again, and rightly, mentioned. This instance would, if needful, tend to show, that as early as the time of Ælfred there was one model whence the other copies were taken, with the exception of MS. Domitian, A. VIII., which can hardly be dated earlier than the middle of the twelfth century, and may be pronounced a careless composition, by more hands than one, from beginning to end.

From the beginning of the Chronicle to the death of Beda (A.D. 734), we are enabled to form a judgment as to the sources whence much of its matter is derived; but from that date until the time of Ælfred (or about a hundred and fifty years), we know not from what materials the narrative was compiled. Tradition, which in those days must have been in much greater request than it is now, no doubt contributed its share; some marginal notes also in the volumes of monastic libraries, may have afforded information, as, it appears, was the case on the Continent; although I am not aware tha any such are extant in this country.

Such a continuous chain of occurrences as that exhibited in the Anglo-Saxon Chronicle, would, it is reasonable to suppose, display a gradation of changes in the Anglo-Saxon tongue, during the two centuries from the time of Ælfred to the death of Harold: such is not, however, the case, as the language is the same throughout, with regard both to its vocabulary and its inflexions; nor until some time after the Conquest do we observe any material corruptions; they then begin to be but too manifest. Yet, even here we have hardly a just criterion in the Peterborough, or Laudian, manuscript, much of the later parts of which are evidently the work of illiterate, or even foreign, monks, glaringly ignorant of the use of genders and cases. From this period may be dated the break-up of the old "English undefiled." The evil was for some time partial in its influence: its focus was the Norman court; the Saxon, at least its vocabulary, long kept its ground in the country: as an example of this may be compared the courtly jargon of Chaucer with the rugged downright Saxon of Piers Ploughman.

I regret my inability to supply any information relative to the authors of the poetic effusions in the Saxon Chronicle. Are they by the writers of the prose narrative, or are they only insertions? The latter seems to me the more probable opinion. Of these, the first, not only in the order of time, but in excellence, is the ode on the Battle of Brunnanburh (A.D. 937); and a matter it is of regret that the name of its author has irrecoverably perished. Of the other pieces, little can be said in praise; they are rather rhythmical and alliterative prose than poetry; while, on the other hand, the effusion on the assassination of king Eadward, and the account of the murder of the young prince Ælfred, son of the Confessor, may be regarded as unmetrical poetry. In preceding editions of the Chronicle an attempt has been made to reduce them to metrical arrangement, but as they are defective both in rhythm and alliteration, I have printed them continuously, as in the manuscripts.

Of the chronology of the Anglo-Saxons, before their conversion to Christianity, or from what data the writers of the Chronicle reduced the time of events, down to the coming of Augustine (A.D. 596), to the era of the Incarnation,[1] we have no knowledge; though that our pagan forefathers had some system of time-reckoning there cannot be a doubt.

In this edition of the Saxon Chronicle, the texts of the several manuscripts are printed entire; a plan which, at first sight, may appear objectionable, on the score of the great mass of repetition it necessarily occasions of matter not only substantially but frequently verbatim and even literatim identical. But to produce the Chronicle complete, there was no midway between the plan here adopted, and the less satisfactory one hitherto followed, of taking the most esteemed manuscript for a text, and printing beneath all deviations from it, in the shape of various readings, unpleasant and inconvenient to consult, and, it is believed, by only a few readers, ever consulted; and frequently equalling in mass, and sometimes exceeding, the text itself. Nor does this method afford the requisite facility to those desirous of weighing the several narratives of the same event against each other, as the narrative of a West Saxon against that of a Mercian; or of a partisan of earl Godwine and Harold against that of one inimical to their house. And to the investigator of [1] There are some anomalous appearances with respect to the time of beginning the year in MS. C. (Cott. Tiber. B. I.), before this period; but henceforward to the year 1053, it can hardly be questioned that the computation from Easter is followed in that copy. This event, therefore (king Eadward's marriage), according to our mode of reckoning, would belong to the year 1045. R.P. note to An. 1044.

dialects the arrangement in columns cannot be otherwise than useful and welcome. The foregoing considerations will, it is hoped, be deemed a sufficient apology for the plan here adopted.

Of the translation the text is formed from those of the original which, coinciding in matter, are susceptible of collation; all deviations from which are placed beneath the line, with an indication at foot of the manuscript whence such discrepant or additional matter is derived.

A few words here may not be out of place respecting the pronunciation of the Anglo-Saxon letters, in the proper names of persons and places occurring in the Chronicle. J has the sound of the English y, as in all the Germanic tongues, and in Italian; c is pronounced like k; though, when the language, owing apparently to foreign influence, had lost its purity, with respect both to its pronunciation and vocabulary, this sound of k before e and i degenerated into ch, like the Italian ce and ci; when ceap, ceorl, cinne, cirice, became our cheap, churl, chin, church, Scotice kirk. In later times, too, the þ (ð) in proper names of persons beginning with Æþel, is often found changed to g, as Ægelred for Æþelred, Ægelward for Æþelward, etc. The Saxon g, as in German, was always hard, as in our give, begin, and in general before e and i, in all English words derived from the Saxon.

The Indexes have been framed on the model of my predecessors, Bishop Gibson and Dr. Ingram, to whose praiseworthy labours in that department I have made some additions. Of such Anglo-Saxon terms as are necessarily retained in the translation, a short Glossary is given at the end of the second volume. For ampler explanation of these terms, recourse may be had to the late Mr. Kemble's "Saxons in England," Hallam's "State of Europe during the Middle Ages," Spelman's "Glossarium Archæologicum," etc.

The manuscripts of which the texts are here printed are—

A. A small folio on vellum, belonging to the library of Corpus Christi College, Cambridge, marked CLXXIII. (formerly S. XI.), containing the Annals of England from the invasion of Julius Cæsar to A.D. 1070. Prefixed to this manuscript is a Genealogy of the West Saxon Kings, from the landing of Cerdic and his son Cynric, to the accession of Ælfred. "It is written in double "columns to the year 417, at fol. 9, but afterwards in "single columns. The first original hand ends at "page 33, with the year 891, whence it is continued "in a variety of hands. Between A.D. 1 and A.D. 891, "it contains many interlineary additions, apparently "of the twelfth century. They are, for the greater "part, written on erasures of the original text, mostly "taken from Beda, through the medium, as it would "seem, of a copy resembling D. or E., and were appa-"rently intended to supply deficiencies in the original "narrative. The narrative of this copy to A.D. 806, "relates chiefly to transactions south of the Thames, its "notices of Northern matters being generally brief and "taken from Beda; but from that year it becomes "general to A.D. 925. Afterwards its notices are few, "and only at intervals." [1]

B. "The Cottonian Manuscript, Tiberius A. VI., ori-"ginally a small folio, but now much shrunk by fire. "It extends from the Incarnation to A.D. 977, and is "written in one uniform hand, apparently of the latter "part of the tenth century; but it may be doubted "whether the transcript was completed, as the dates "after A.D. 552 are only occasionally marked. To "A.D. 918, the text varies but little from that of "Wheloc, or Manuscript G.; but the compiler of this, "or a similar copy, having found the Annals of Mercia,

[1] Monumenta Historica Britannica, Preface, p. 75.

" during the government of Æthelfleda, in a separate " form, instead of attempting to distribute them chro- " nologically among the events of the original chronicle, " returned from A.D. 918 to A.D. 896, and thence in- " serted them continuously to A.D. 919, when the two " accounts run into one. Thenceforward to A.D. 934 it " differs from Manuscript G.; but afterwards, till it " ceases at A.D. 975, it again resembles that copy. " It was first collated by Dr. Ingram."[1] It formerly belonged to the Monastery of St. Augustine at Canterbury.

C. " The Cottonian Manuscript, Tiberius B. I.,[2] in " square folio; from the invasion of Julius Cæsar to " A.D. 1066; written apparently in the same hand to " A.D. 1046, afterwards in various hands. It appears " to have been transcribed from a copy of the same " class as B., as far as that manuscript extends, but " its chronology is complete. Afterwards it agrees for " the most part with Manuscripts D., E., and F., to " A.D. 1056, when it becomes blank to A.D. 1065, and " ends, in a hand of the twelfth century, with the " story of the Dane [r. Norwegian] at Stamford Bridge, " in A.D. 1066. In a few instances, differing from the " other copies, it seems to begin the year at Easter.[3] " Its variations were first printed by Dr. Ingram."[4]

D. " The Cottonian Manuscript, Tiberius B. IV., is in " medium folio; from the Incarnation to A.D. 1079; " written in one hand to A.D. 1016, afterwards in " several. It is much mutilated from A.D. 261 to " A.D. 693, but part of the hiatus has been filled up " by Josceline from other copies; it is also mutilated " at the end. To A.D. 806, it has much in common " with Manuscripts E. and F. It sometimes enlarges

" the text, not only by fuller extracts from Beda, but " by the addition of many events relating especially " to Mercia and Northumbria, which would seem to " imply the existence of a distinct Chronicle, at least " during the greater part of the eighth century; and " it probably also agreed with Manuscript E., in that " portion which is now lost in that copy. Afterwards " it is nearly the same as Manuscripts A. and G., to " the beginning of the tenth century, when it inter- " weaves the account of Æthelflæd's exploits, sometimes " abridged, chronologically, but rather confusedly, and " with some repetitions. After the middle of the tenth " century it has some peculiar circumstances relating to " the Northumbrian affairs, whenceforward it agrees " generally with Manuscripts C., E., and F. Its varia- " tions were first printed by Dr. Ingram. The portion " extending from A.D. 1043 to the end, has been " printed by Lye, as an appendix to his Saxon Dic- " tionary, from a faulty transcript by Lambard, now " at Christ Church, Canterbury."[1] In the chronology of the eighth and ninth centuries, this manuscript is, in numerous instances, a year behind the three preceding manuscripts, herein agreeing with the chronicles of the north country, as Simeon of Durham, etc., and as appears to have originally been the case with the Corpus Christi Manuscript, previous to erasure.

E. "The Bodleian Manuscript, Laud. 636 (formerly " E. 80), from the Incarnation to A.D. 1154, a small " quarto, originally interleaved in folio; it is written " in double columns from A.D. 12. to A.D. 476, after- " wards in single columns. The hand as well as the " ink vary but little to A.D. 1122, whence to A.D. " 1154, where it ends, mutilated, it is in various hands. " On the margin, between A.D. 1128 and A.D. 1140, " is inserted a brief Chronicle in French, from Brutus " to Edward I.; and on the interleaving, and some-

[1] Monumenta Historica Britannica, Preface, p. 76.

" times on the margin of the Chronicle, are collations " from Manuscript A., together with a few notes. To " A.D. 891, in common with Manuscript D., it is " derived from a copy similar to Manuscript A., but " with large additions, either from Beda or from a " copy like that used for Manuscript D. It contains " only a few scanty notices between A.D. 891 and " A.D. 975, many years being wholly blank; but from " that time it agrees more or less with Manuscripts " C., D., and F., till they severally end. From A.D. 655 " it has many late additions concerning Peterborough, " to which monastery it appears to have belonged. It " has also certain Latin notices interspersed between " A.D. 114 and A.D. 812, which are derived from a " source similar to that of the Chronicon Cadomense, " printed by Duchesne." [1]

F. "The Cottonian Manuscript, Domitian A. VIII. 2., " from the Incarnation to A.D. 1056, in Saxon, in " octavo or small quarto, is in a hand apparently of the " twelfth century, and nearly of the same character " throughout. It is often carelessly written, has many " erasures, and is sometimes illegible, in which state it " ends. Its basis to A.D. 891, in common with Manu- " scripts D. and E., was a copy similar to Manuscript " G., with many additions, for the greater part resem- " bling those copies; but the text, as compared with " them, is generally compressed or slightly abbreviated. " Like Manuscript E., it contains very little between " A.D. 891 and A.D. 975, after which latter date it

[1] Monumenta Historica Britannica, Preface, p. 76. The spurious charters inserted in this manuscript, in favour of the abbey of Peterborough, and apparently of the twelfth century, will be found printed beneath the line, so as not to interrupt the general narrative. It may be here observed, that the latter part of this manuscript is rather a Chronicon Petroburgense than a 'Saxon Chronicle,' being mostly made up of matter relating to that abbey, as the brawls with abbot Henry, etc. etc.

" again coincides with Manuscripts C., D., and E., with " some variations. It is mutilated or illegible till it " ends. It contains also various peculiar additions, " chiefly relating to Kentish ecclesiastical affairs; of " which the first occurs under A.D. 694. The Latin " version follows the text, year by year, and it is gene- " rally very close, but it has occasionally insertions " which apparently are not translations."[1]

G. "The Cottonian Manuscript, Otho B. XI. 2., from " the Invasion of Julius Cæsar to A.D. 1001, is in small " folio, according to Wanley,[2] but now greatly shrunk " by fire. This volume was supposed to have been " entirely destroyed, but a considerable portion of Beda's " Ecclesiastical History (No. 1.), and three damaged " leaves of the Saxon Chronicle, in a hand apparently " of the eleventh century (No. 2.), beginning A.D. 837 " (823), and ending A.D. 871, have lately been recovered. " This Manuscript formed the basis of Wheloc's edition, " and a comparison of his text with such portions of " the leaves as are readily legible, seems to show that " he transcribed it very carefully. A transcript by " Lambard, apparently from this copy, is among Usher's " collections at Dublin."[3]

W. By this letter are indicated the references to Wheelocke's edition of the Chronicle.

In addition to the foregoing there yet remains to be noticed the Cottonian Manuscript, Tiberius A. III. (fol. 175), consisting of a single leaf, bound up with other manuscripts of a heterogeneous and miscellaneous character, containing the genealogy of the West Saxon kings, from Cerdic to Eadward, son of Eadgar, with whom it ends abruptly; whence it appears probable that it was composed during the short reign of that unfortunate prince; and may, as conjectured by Wanley (p. 199), have originally belonged to MS. Cott. Tiberius A. VI., which it not only resembles in its orthography and the form of its letters, but, like that manuscript, ends just before the murder of Eadward, A.D. 977: it is, therefore, inserted in the present edition immediately after that date.

"The Anglo-Saxon Chronicle was first published, " under the title of 'Chronologia Anglo-Saxonica,' " by Abraham Wheloc, at Cambridge, in the year " 1644, in folio, with a Latin translation. His text " was taken from the Cottonian Manuscript, Otho B. " XI., collated with the Corpus Christi Manuscript, " C.LXXIII."

"It was next edited by Edmund Gibson, afterwards " Bishop of London, at Oxford, in the year 1692, in " quarto. In addition to Wheloc's text, Gibson used " the Bodleian Manuscript, Laud. 636, and copies of the " Cottonian, Tiberius A. VI. and Domitian A. VIII. " Besides giving a new Latin version of his text, " greatly enlarged, he added a preface, notes, and " indexes, glossarial and chronological."

"The latest edition was published at London in " 1823, in quarto, by the Reverend James Ingram, " B.D., afterwards President of Trinity College, Ox- " ford. Dr. Ingram collated all the known manu- " scripts, among which were two in the Cottonian " collection (viz., Tiber. B. I. and Tiber. B. IV.) not " employed by Gibson; and of his text, thus con- " siderably enlarged, he gave an English version, " together with a preface, notes, indexes of persons " and places, and a brief grammar of the Anglo- " Saxon language."

An edition to the Anglo-Saxon Chronicle, down to the date of the Norman conquest, is included in the 'Monumenta Historica Britannica,' published in the year 1848, in folio, by Royal authority. This edition, with an English translation, is by the late eminent Anglo-Saxon scholar, Mr. Richard Price, and is, as far as it extends, in every respect greatly superior to any of the preceding ones. In the present work a few of Mr. Price's notes are retained, and are distinguished by the initials R.P.

I have now to express my sincere thanks to Dr. Reinhold Pauli, Professor of History in the University of Tübingen, the able continuator (in German) of Dr. Lappenberg's History of England, and author of the Life of King Ælfred, for his kindness, when leaving England, in spontaneously presenting me with his transcripts of the Cottonian Manuscripts of the Saxon Chronicle, Tiberius B. I., Tiberius B. IV., and Domitian A. VIII., and his collation of Tiberius A. VI. with Tiberius B. I.; a favour for which I acknowledge myself deeply indebted.

servitium Dei facere possent, ex simplicitate cordis præcepit capellanis clericis suis, ut essent cum eis usque quo Deus pacificaret terram, quæ tunc nimis erat turbata propter nimias tempestates bellorum. Accepit etiam de villis suis presbiteros, ut essent cum monachis, ita tamen ut monachi semper haberent dominatum super clericos. Cogitavit idem archiepiscopus et sæpe suis dixit, "quia "statim cum Deus pacem nobis dederit, aut isti clerici monachi fient, aut ego ubicunque monachos "inveniam quos reponam; scit enim Deus," inquid, "quod aliter facere non possum." Sed nunquam temporibus suis pax fuit in Anglia; et ideo remanserunt clerici cum monachis, nec ullo tempore fuit ecclesia sine monachis.†

Iste fuit prudens valde, ita ut illo in tempore nullus sapientior haberetur in Anglia. Recedente itaque inde rege, Ælfricus pergit Doroberniam. Ubi cum venisset, receptus est a tali ordine clericorum a quo minus vellet. Cogitavit igitur, et multum secum tractans, quali modo possit eicere eos, quos sciebat in ecclesia Christi injuste mansisse. Ut supra diximus, valde fuit prudens, et ecclesiasticis disciplinis plurimum instructus: itaque præcepit congregari omnes quos sciebat prudentiores per totam Angliam, et maxime senes. Ad quem cum pro reverentia viri [festina]nter venissent, requisivit ab eis si quid aut ipsi a suis antecessoribus de ecclesia Christi Cantiæ audissent, aut ipsi in aliquo loco [legi]ssent, quis ordo in prædicta æcclesia Deo servire debuisset, clericorum aut monachorum, aut quis eo tempore, postquam Agustinus Angliam ingresset, ibi locatus esset in initio? ipse vero multa a multis antea inde audivit, et in libris legit. Tunc seniores et prudentiores narraverunt ei, quod inde a suis patribus audissent: "Postquam Deus, inquiunt, per beatum Augustinum, aperuit cor regis Ædelberti ad suscipiendam fidem Christi, ipse Augustinus elegit sibi sedem in civitate Dorobernia [quæ er]at caput totius regni Ædelberti regis, ubi invenit quoddam opus inceptum Romano opere, quod auxiliante rege statuit perficere. Quod dum perfectum [esset] rex Ægelbertus cepit consilium quærere ab Augustino et a cæteris consiliariis suis, quem ordinem monachorum vel clericorum convenientius in illa ecclesia [ad] serviendum Deo constituere potuisset. Qui omnes dederunt consilium, ut rex ex sua parte mitteret nuncios suos, et Augustinus monachos suos cum nunciis regis Romæ, ad papam Gregorium, et ejus consilio, sicut antea idem Augustinus venit in Angliam, ita et ecclesia jam nominata dedica[retur] et ordinaretur. Quod et factum est. Nam rex statim, paratis nuntiis suis, misit Romæ, et Augustinus nichilominus suos. Cum autem venissent ad papam, et nuntias[sent] quod Angli suscepissent fidem Christi, gavisus est valde. Auditis itaque omnibus quæ a rege et Augustino mandata fuerant, statim remisit nuntios, cum quibus hos viros misit Augustino, ut essent ei in adjutorium ad fidem Christi confirmandam: Mellitum, Justum, Paulinum, Rufianum. Per istos etiam misit Augustino pallium; [simulque] in quo loco deberet episcopos co-ordinare et ponere mandavit; ecclesiam quoque quam fecerat in honorem Jhesu Christi, et S. Mariæ matris ejus, præcepit dedi[cari, ej]usdemque ordinis quo ipse Augustinus, et alii quos ipse sibi misit, erant, in eadem ecclesia, ad serviendum Deo ponere, sibique ibidem sedem archiepiscopalem, et omnibus suc[cessoribus] suis statuere, omnesque archiepiscopos sibi succedentes monachos esse debere, ex parte Dei viventis, et beati Petri, et ex sua et omnium suc[cess]orum præcepit. Cum autem nuntii reversi venissent ad regem et ad Agustinum, gaudio maximo repleti sunt, pro tali mandato. Tunc Augustinus festinanter [dedicavit] ecclesiam, illo die quo festum Sanctorum Primi et Feliciani, v. Idus Junii, habetur, posuitque in ea monachos, sicut papa mandavit; et ex ipsis ordinabantur episcopi per Angliam, [sicut] ipse legisti in Ystoria Anglorum." Itaque cum ista Ælfricus archiepiscopus audisset, et tales testes habuisset, qui illo tempore maxime in consilio regis erant, [ga]udio repletus est. Addiderunt adhuc prædicti, viri: "Ita," sicut diximus, "permanserunt monachi in ecclesia Christi Cantuariæ, tempore Augustini, Laurentii, Melliti, Justi, [Hon]orii, Deusdedit, Theodorii, Brihtwaldi, Tatwini, Nothelmi, Cuthberti, Breguuini, Janberti, Aðelhardi, Wulfredi, Feologildi. Illo vero primo anno [quo Ch]elnodus suscepit archiepiscopatum Cantiæ, tanta mortalitas facta est, ut in ecclesia Christi non remanerent nisi v. monachi, et ideo pro tali necessitate idem C. archiepiscopus accepit de [clericis] suis presbiteros, qui quousque restauraret ecclesiam monachis, juvarent paucos monachos qui remanserunt. Nunc autem est in potestate regis et tua, si diutius vultis ut ibi clerici remaneant; quia postquam pro tali necessitate ibi positi sunt, non potuerunt levius eici quam modo." Tunc archiepiscopus cum magna festinatione cum, his omnibus quos secum ibi habebat, perrexit ad regem Ægelbertum, et indicavit ei per ordinem hæc omnia. Tunc dixit accepto consilio rex: "Hoc videtur mihi melius consilium, ut eatis Romæ pro pallio vestro, et indicetis apostolico . . . . hæc omnia, et secundum suam consilium per omnia fieri concedo." Dixerunt omnes, optimum esse consilium regis: archiepiscopus autem, paratis rebus suis, perrexit Romam. Statim vero ut clerici audierunt consilium regis, paraverunt duos ex ipsis qui irent Romæ, portantes secum multum auri et argenti, quod darent papæ pro pallio. Sed nuntii archiepiscopi præcesserunt. Nam cum clerici pervenerunt ad papam, respondit, Se nolle illorum verba suscipere, quia nullum signum nec a rege nec a populo terræ secum haberent. Discedentibus clericis, venit archiepiscopus ad papam, qui suscepit eum cum magno honore. In crastino fecit eum celebrare missam ad altare beati Petri, et ipse [imposuit] ei proprium pallium suum. Cum hæc ita facta essent, archiepiscopus cepit dicere pape de clericis, et de ecclesia Christi, sicut superius dictum est ; et papa ei de clericis, quomodo venerunt ad eum, et quod obtulerunt sibi magnam pecuniam pro pallio ; et adjecit papa : "Redite in Angliam cum benedictione Dei, et Sancti Petri ; et in ecclesia tibi commendata, ejusdem ordinis in ea ponite, quem papa Gregorius Augustino præcepit ; et hoc tibi præcipio ex parte Dei, et beati Petri, et nostra." Tunc archiepiscopus ita rediit. Cum autem revertisset in Angliam, statim adiit ecclesiam suam, et post adiit regem ; et lætatus est rex et omnis Anglia [de] reditu suo, et quod omnia secundum voluntatem regis peregit. Post hec reversus ad sedem suam, et ejectis clericis, locavit ecclesiam monachis, sicut papa illum imperaverat, secundum quod beatus G. præcepit Augustino facere in primordio ecclesiæ. †

[1] From here to the end of the year the language becomes extremely ungrammatical and corrupt, quite unlike the foregoing, but resembling that of the spurious and doubtful charters at pp. 52, 58, 92, 122, 220. The matter is moreover connected with the abbey of Peterborough, and is probably the work of a friend of Ernulfus, to whom we owe the Textus Roffensis.

* M.LXX. Hoc anno,* Lanfrancus Cadomensis abbas, compellente rege Willhelmo, et jubente papa Alexandro, Angliam venit; et primatum regni Anglorum in æcclesia Cantuariensi suscepit, eligentibus eum senioribus ejusdem æcclesiæ, cum episcopis et principibus, clero et populo Angliæ, in curia regis. Cum autem Cantuariam venisset, obviam ei processit honorabiliter conventus æcclesiæ Christi, conjuncto sibi toto conventu Sancti Augustini, cum electo ejusdem æcclesiæ abbate Scotlando. Ad quem consecrandum omnes episcopi regni Anglorum, servato antiquo more, venerunt: et qui venire non poterant, litteris et legatione sese humiliter excusaverunt. Non multis post diebus Thomas Eboracensi consecrandus archiepiscopus Cantuariam venit. Cumque Lanfrancus, cum suffraganeis episcopis, quos ad hanc consecrationem advocaverat, indutus, ante altare Xp̃i consideret; et totus conventus, ut in tali sacramento fieri solet, albis honorifice indutus, in choro staret, adducitur Thomas examinandus. Cum vero inter alia professionem ab eo Lanfrancus cum sacramento requireret, respondit Thomas, se hoc minime facturum, quod suos antecessores hoc Lanfranci antecessoribus fecisse non cognoverat. Lanfrancus autem, quanvis sufficienti ratione, hoc eum ex antiquo more facere debere monstraret, non tamen ille adquievit: surrexit itaque Lanfrancus, et Thomas non sacratus abscessit, regem adiit, et de Lanfranco querimoniam fecit; quem Lanfrancus mox subsecutus, se et æcclesiam suam rationem habere in iis quæ
* protulerat. * protulaverat, ostendit; nec destitit, donec Thomas, licet multo labore, Cantuariam rediit, ibique quicquid Lanfrancus ab eo quærebat, humiliter exhibuit. Nec multo post Lanfrancus ab omnibus Anglici regni episcopis professionem quæsivit et accepit.

Secundo anno ordinationis suæ Romam ivit, quem papa Alexander in tantum honoravit, ut ei contra morem assurgeret, et duo pallia, ob signum præcipui amoris, tribueret; quorum unum Romano more ab altare accepit, alterum vero ipse papa, unde missas celebrare consueverat, sua manu porrexit: in cujus præsentia Thomas de primatu Cantuariensis æcclesiæ, et de subjectione quorundam episcoporum, calumniam movit, quæ qualem finem postea in Anglia accepit, Lanfrancus breviter et absolute scribit in epistola, quam præfato Alexandro papæ direxit. Hoc quoque anno generale concilium Wentoniæ celebravit, in quo et Vuluricum, Novi Monasterii abbatem deposuit, multaque de Christianæ religionis cultu servanda instituit. Post dies paucos, in Lundonia Osbernum, Essecistrensi episcopum, et Cantuariæ Scotlandum, æcclesiæ Sancti Augustini abbatem, sacravit.

C.C.C.C. C.LXXIII.

Tercio anno, in Cloecistra sacravit Petrum Licifeldensi, sive Cestrensi, episcopum. Hoc quoque anno habitum est magnum placitum in loco qui dicitur Pinenden, in quo Lanfrancus diratiocinavit, se suamque æcclesiam omnes terras et consuetudines suas ita liberas, terra marique habere, sicut rex habet suas, exceptis tribus, videlicet, si regalis via fuerit effosa; si arbor incisa juxta super eam ceciderit; si homicidium factum, vel sanguis in ea fusus fuerit: in iis qui deprehensus, et ab eo pignus acceptum fuerit; regi enim dabit; alioquin liber a regis exactoribus erit.

Quarto anno, Patricium Dubliniæ civitati, in Hybernia, sacravit episcopum Lundoniæ, a quo et professionem accepit; et litteras ei deferendas regibus Hyberniæ, dignas valde memoriæ, contradidit.

Quinto anno, generale concilium Lundoniæ celebravit, cujus gestionem, rogatu multorum, litteris commendavit.

Sexto anno, dedit Hernosto, monacho in capitulo æcclesiæ Christi, æcclesiam Rofensem regendam, quem et Lundonie sacravit. Wentonie concilium celebravit: et Hernostus hoc ipso anno ab hac vita migravit.

Septimo anno, Gundulfo modo æcclesiam Rofensem tradidit; quem etiam Cantuarie sacravit. Hoc quoque anno misit ei litteras Thomas archiepiscopus Eboracensis, in quibus rogavit ut sibi mitterentur duo episcopi ad consecrandum clericum quendam, qui ei litteras de Horgadis insulis detulit, ut ipsarum insularum episcopus consecraretur. Cujus petitioni Lanfrancus annuens, mandavit Wlstano Wigorniensi, et Petro Cestrensi episcopis, ut Eboracam irent, et cum Thoma tantam rem complere satagerent.

Octavo anno, concilium Londonie celebravit, in quo Ailnodum, Glastingensis cœnobii abbatem, deposuit.

Anno xi., celebravit concilium apud Claudiam civitatem, ubi et Thomas archiepiscopus Eboracensis, jubente rege, et Lanfranco consentiente, sacravit Willielmum Dunelmensi episcopum; eo quod a Scottorum episcopis, qui sibi subjecti sunt, habere adjutorium non potuit. Hujus ministerii cooperatores fuerunt, Lanfranco præcipiente, Wlstanus, Osbernus, Giso, Rotbertus, episcopi. Eo quoque tempore, misit in Hiberniam Donnaldo episcopo litteras sacræ doctrinæ pinguedine refertas.

Sexto decimo anno, sacravit Donatum, monachum suum Cantuarie, ad regnum Dubliniæ, petente rege, clero, et populo Hyberniæ, quibus etiam litteras exortatorias misit. Hoc quoque anno, apud Cleucestram concilium celebravit, in quo Wulfecetelum, Crulandensis cœnobii abbatem, deposuit. Rotbertum Cestrensi, et Willielmum Helmeanensi, simul uno die episcopos Cantuariæ sacravit, Mauritium Lundoniensi æcclesiæ apud Wentoniam consecravit; qui sacratus, post paucos dies, matri suæ æcclesiæ Cantuariensi, cum honestis muneribus, se præsentavit.

Octavo decimo anno, mortuo rege Willielmo trans mare, filium ejus Willielmum, sicut pater constituit, Lanfrancus in regem elegit, et in ecclesia beati Petri, in occidentali parte Lundoniæ sita, sacravit, et coronavit. Eodem anno Godefridum Cicestrensi æcclesiæ antistitem, et Widonem æcclesie Sc̃i Augustini abbatem, et Johannem Wellensi æcclesiæ episcopum, Cantuariæ, in sede metropoli, examinavit, atque sacravit. In crastino hujus consecrationis, Widonem abbatem per semetipsum Lanfrancus, associato sibi Odone Baiocensi episcopo, fratre regis, qui tunc Cantuariam venerat, ad Sĉm Augustinum duxit, mandatis fratribus ejusdem æcclesiæ, quatinus eum susciperent, ut proprium abbatem atque pastorem; qui unanimiter animati, responderunt, se illi nec velle subesse, nec illum suscipere. Venit itaque Lanfrancus, adducens abbatem; et cum monachos pertinaciter videret resistere, nec ei velle parere, præcepit ut omnes qui sibi nollent obedire, continuo exirent. Exierunt ergo pariter fere omnes, et Lanfrancus cum suis abbatem honorifice introductum in sede locavit, et æcclesiam commendavit. Priorem autem ejusdem æcclesiæ, nomine Ælwinum, et alios, quos voluit, cepit: et Cantuariam claustrali custodia servandos protinus transmisit; eos vero qui forciores, et caput scandali extiterant, in castellum duci, ibique in carcere custodiri præcepit. Cumque omnibus rite peractis domum rediret, nunciatum est ei monachos, qui exierant, sub castro, secus ecclesiam Sĉæ Miltrudæ consedisse. Quibus mandavit, ut, si vellent, ante horam nonam, ad æcclesiam impune redirent; set si illam præterirent, non jam libere, sed ut fugitivi revenirent. Hoc audito, in ambiguo habebant redire, vel remanere. Hora autem refectionis, cum esurirent, plures ex eis, pœnitentes suæ pertinaciæ, ad Lanfrancum miserunt, et ei omnem obædientiam promiserunt. Quibus continuo pepercit, mandans ut redirent, et professionem suam præfato abbati se servaturos sacramento confirmarent. Itaque redierunt, et se deinceps fore fideles, et obædientes Widoni abbati, super corpus beati Augustini, juraverunt. Qui vero remanserant cepit Lanfrancus, et per æcclesias Angliæ divisit; constrinxit, donec eos obedientiam profiteri coegit. Circa idem tempus Æluredum, unum ex illis, vagantem fugiendo cepit, et Cantuarie, in sede metropoli, cum quibusdam sociis illius, qui abbati malum moliti sunt, ferro compeditos, multis diebus rigorem ordinis in claustro discere fecit: sed postquam sufficienter humiliati sunt, ut estimatum est, et emendationem promiserunt, misertus eorum Lanfrancus, de singulis locis, quo eos disperserat, præcepit reduci, et suo abbati reconciliari.

Eodem anno, dissensione reiterata, pernitiem abbati clam machinati sunt; et dum unus ex eis, nomine Columbanus, deprehensus fuisset, jussit eum Lanfrancus sibi adduci. Cumque coram eo astaret, interrogavit, si abbatem voluisset perimere. Qui confestim, Si, inquit, potuissem, pro certo eum interfecissem. Precepit itaque Lanfrancus, ut ante portas beati Augustini, spectante populo, ligaretur nudus, flagellis afficeretur, deinde, præciso capitio, ab urbe pelleretur. Factum est ut imperavit; et ex hoc, inquietudinem cæterorum, donec vixit, sua formidine quassavit.

Nono decimo anno, defunctus est Lanfrancus, venerabilis archiepiscopus, et sepultus est in sede metropoli Cantuarie; qui in sede pontificale sedit annis decem et octo, mensibus ix., duobus diebus. De cujus actibus, ædificiis, elemosinis, laboribus, scriptura, quæ in ejus anniversario legitur, ex parte commemorat. Multa enim erant valde. Post ejus obitum, monachi Sĉi Augustini, præfato abbati suo Widoni palam resistentes, cives Cantuariæ contra eum concitaverunt; qui illum armata manu in sua domo interimere temptaverunt. Cujus familia cum resisteret, pluribus utrinque vulneratis, et quibusdam interfectis, vix abbas inter manus illorum illesus evasit, et ad matrem æcclesiam, querendo auxilium, Cantuariam, fugit. Hujus facti fama citati suffraganei ejusdem æcclesiæ, Walkelmus Wentanus, et Gundulfus Rofensis, episcopi, Cantuariam, cum quibusdam nobilibus, quos miserat rex, veniunt, ut tantæ offensæ vindictam adhibeant. Auditis ergo rationibus seditionis, monachi a culpa excusari non poterant ; quos coram populo subire disciplinam, quia palam peccaverant, ii qui advenerant, decreverunt : sed prior, et monachi æcclesiæ Christi, pietate moti, restiterunt ; ne, si palam punirentur, infames deinceps fierent, sicque eorum vita ac servitus contemneretur. Igitur concessum est, ut in æcclesia fieret, ubi non populus, sed soli ad hoc electi, admitterentur. Vocati sunt ad hoc monachi ecclesiæ Christi, Wido, videlicet, et Normannus, qui disciplinam ad episcoporum imperium intulerunt. Deinde divisi sunt per æcclesias Angliæ, et loco illorum XXIIII. monachi æcclesiæ Christi admissi, cum priore, nomine Antonio, qui sub-prioratus officio Cantuarie fungebatur. Cives vero, qui abbatis curiam armata manu intraverant, capti ; et qui se ab ejus impugnatione purgare non poterant, oculos amiserunt.

Post obitum Lanfranci caruit æcclesia Christi pastore IIII^{or}. annis, mensibus IX., et diebus IX. in quibus multa adversa perpessa est. Anno vero Dominicæ incarnationis millesimo XCIII. datus est pontificatus Cantuarberiæ Anselmo Beccensi abbati, II. Noñ. Marcii, viro probo, bono, apprime erudito, et sui temporis nominatissimo. Venit autem Cantuariam VII. Kaℓ. Octoƀ. multis eum causis rationabilibus detinentibus, quod prius venire nolebat ; et sacratus est II. Noñ. Decemƀ.
